Goiânia represents a completely new challenge for us. We have never raced there in MotoGP™ and we have not been able to organize any tests, so all our preparation relies on simulations. They show a very asymmetric circuit, with very high loads especially on the right-hand side.

THREE SPECIFICATIONS AT THE FRONT AND THREE AT THE REAR, ALL ASYMMETRIC

To address these constraints and the uncertainty associated with a new track, we are bringing an extended allocation to Brazil with three specifications at the front and three at the rear, all asymmetric.

In addition to a reinforced right-hand tread area like the front tires, the rear tires feature a reinforced structure to better control temperature build-up. This will give teams more possibilities to find the best balance.

On this new circuit, the riders who learn the racing lines and the tire behaviour the fastest will certainly have an advantage. Finally, we are very happy to return to Brazil, a country with an extremely passionate and warm public.
