WE HAVE THEREFORE WORKED ON A
 MEDIUM-SOFT
 FOCUS WITH THREE FRONT
 SPECIFICATIONS

The French Grand Prix is always a very special moment for Michelin, because we race at home, on a circuit that is part of our history and in front of an exceptional crowd. Le Mans is a very interesting track for us: it is not the fastest on the calendar, but it demands a great deal of precision, stability, and consistency in grip. It is also a circuit where conditions can change very quickly, making tire management absolutely crucial.

In this context, our objective is to provide an allocation capable of covering a wide range of situations, while allowing riders to fully express their potential. We have therefore worked on a Medium-Soft focus, with three front specifications to offer greater flexibility, particularly in response to temperature variations, and proven rear solutions suited to the circuit's constraints.

Finally, this edition has special significance as it concludes three years during which Michelin has been very proud to serve as title partner of its national Grand Prix. It is a collaboration carried out with high-quality partners, which fully contributes to the success and influence of this event.
